Editorial

Dear Wilson residents,

When asked to define 'community', we all harken back to those halcyon days gone by when everyone knew everyone else, we could leave our doors and windows open when we went out and there was always someone nearby that we could rely on. Sadly those days are gone and may never return.

However, together we can still create something worthwhile with a few simple steps. Get to know your neighbours by acknowledging their existence. Offer to help in simple ways such as taking in mail while they are away and let them know that you are keeping an eye on their property.

Act with consideration for your neighbourhood like not leaving litter, driving and parking with regard to others, and if entertaining, tell nearby neighbours that there may be some additional noise and traffic.

Perhaps there is a senior nearby who would appreciate a kind word or occasional help in some small way.

Such simple deeds are often rewarded many times over and create that sense of community and make the statement that this is where we live and we want it to be a pleasant and safe place where we consider and look out for each other.

Wilson already goes a long way in this regard and is a good suburb, a good place to live with an atmosphere and character of which we can be proud.

That being said, we can all do that little extra and make it even better, a suburb where there is no 'them and us' we are all 'us'.
